

In an unprecedented review, migraine patients with associated light sensitivity who wore ALTIUS[®] Grey-Green tinted contact lenses revealed impressive preliminary results.

ALTIUS[®] INITIAL FINDINGS:

80%

Patients in the survey reported the severity of light sensitivity during a migraine attack was reduced by an impressive 80%

80%

Wearing ALTIUS[®] lenses, patients experienced a significant 80% relief when exposed to bright lights during migraine episodes

84%

Patients described an 84% improvement in their ability to use electronic screens (e.g., smartphones, computers) during migraine episodes

77%

Reports revealed a substantial 77% decrease in how much light sensitivity affects their ability to go outdoors during a migraine episode

84%

Migraine patients wearing ALTIUS[®] Grey-Green tinted lenses noted a marked 84% increase in their ability to engage in social activities during a migraine episode

*Data on file. This information is for educational purposes only.